

Morvdesk & Decide

Announce Strategic Commercial Partnership

20th October 2026 - Morvdesk, an AI-native investment and financial technology company, and Decide.ai, an AI lab developing specialized models and agents, today announced a 12-month strategic commercial partnership focused on applying artificial intelligence to complex financial and enterprise workflows.

The partnership brings together Morvdesk's work in designing, structuring, and distributing listed investment products with Decide's capabilities in specialized AI systems. The companies will collaborate on deploying models and agents across investment research, financial modeling, data analysis, and operational workflows, with an emphasis on accuracy, cost efficiency, and practical operational value.

Through the collaboration, Morvdesk will embed Decide's technology into its research, modeling, and operational processes. Both companies will work closely to identify priority use cases, guide implementation, and refine solutions based on practical business requirements.

“Morvdesk was built AI-native from day one, so partnering with Decide is a natural extension of how we already work. Designing, structuring, and distributing listed investment products demands rigorous research, disciplined portfolio construction, and continuous risk oversight, and Decide’s specialized models give our team the precision and speed to do that at a scale a firm our size could not otherwise reach. Over the next twelve months, we will embed Decide’s AI across our research, modeling, and operational workflows, and we expect what we learn together to shape how investment products are manufactured going forward.”

Terpase Gagher, Founder & CEO, Morvdesk

“We’re excited to deepen our relationship with Morvdesk as we bring specialized AI capabilities into financial services. At Decide, our focus is on building powerful, accurate, and cost-efficient AI systems that help businesses execute complex workflows at scale. This partnership gives us an opportunity to apply our technology to investment research, financial modeling, and other demanding financial workflows, while working closely with Morvdesk to develop solutions that deliver real operational value.”

Abiodun Adetona, Founder & CEO, Decide

About Morvdesk

Morvdesk is an AI-native investment and financial technology company focused on designing, structuring, and distributing listed investment products. The company combines quantitative research, disciplined portfolio construction, and continuous risk oversight, embedding artificial intelligence across its research, modeling, and operational workflows.

About Decide

Decide is an AI lab developing specialized, high-performance AI models and agents for complex enterprise workflows, including spreadsheet automation, financial modeling, data analysis, and document processing.

The company focuses on building powerful, accurate, and cost-efficient AI systems that enable businesses to automate operations, process information, and execute complex tasks at scale. Its technology is available through AI-powered applications, enterprise integrations, and APIs.

Media inquires

Morvdesk: cameron@morvdesk.com

Decide.ai: hi@trydecide.ai
